MANUAL TO SUBMIT IN HAL MEDIATHEQUE

WHAT'S NEW IN HAL

- <https://hal.archives-ouvertes.fr> becomes <https://hal.science>
Simplify the web address and improve international visibility.
Redirects will be provided.
- Evolution of the HAL ergonomics
Implementation of the new interfaces of HAL centered on the researcher's course: submission form, connected user's space (dashboard).
- Evolution of the management mode of the authors in HAL
Goal: optimize the links and synchronizations between the identifiers researchers as the idHAL or the ORCID ID.
- Evolution of the documents typology in HAL
Two different levels of documents types:
 - Generic > compulsory choice.
 - Subtypes > optional choice allowing to qualify more precisely the deposit.

WHY DEPOSIT IN HAL ?

- Ensure free and open access to research
- Provide visibility to your research works
Articles submitted are visible in Google and Google Scholar search engines.
- Improve your citation rates
An article submitted to an open archive is cited twice as often as an article not submitted.
- A single entry for :
Calculate your « Research Points »,
Complete your CV in HAL, your ORCID file with your deposits, the HAL collections of IMT-BS and LITEM, the activity reports, the accreditation files of the school, etc.
- Provide legal protection for your research
Protection under copyright law.
- Ensure the durability of your files and access
Perennial unique URL, unlike the academic social networks,
The documents submitted in HAL are archived on the CINES servers.

The screenshot shows the HAL website homepage. The header includes the HAL logo, a 'New interface' toggle, a language dropdown menu set to 'EN', and a 'Sign in' button. A red circle highlights the 'Sign in' button, and a red arrow points from it to a modal box on the right. The modal box contains the text 'Vous n'avez pas de compte' and a '+ Créer un compte' button. A purple box labeled '1. Change language' points to the language dropdown menu. Another purple box labeled '2. Create your HAL account' points to the '+ Créer un compte' button. The main banner features the HAL logo, the text 'Open and share the knowledge', and a '+ Upload' button. The footer contains four icons and their corresponding descriptions: a globe for 'An international scope', a book for 'A common good for research', a group of people for 'A large collaborative community', and a diamond for 'An archive, some services'.

On the left sidebar, the user's name 'Arnaud LUIZI' is shown above a list of navigation items: 'Dashboard', 'My profile', 'My IdHAL' (circled in purple), 'My CV', 'My deposits', 'ORCID transfer', 'My library', and 'My shared ownerships'. The main content area has three tabs: 'Configure my IdHal', 'My names', and 'My publications' (circled in blue). Below the tabs, a header bar says 'Associate your publications to your idHAL'. A search bar is present with the text 'Show publications based on your authors' names' and a 'Search' button. A dropdown menu is set to 'All'. The search results show a publication by 'Arnaud LUIZI' with a thumbnail and a full citation. A 'Save' button is at the bottom right of the results, and a delete icon is at the end of the publication row. A purple callout box at the bottom contains the following text:

Check the publications automatically linked to your name, delete those for which you are not the author, save your changes

On the left side, there is a sidebar menu for the user 'Arnaud LUIZI'. The menu items are: Dashboard, My profile, My IdHAL, My CV (highlighted with a purple oval), My deposits, ORCID transfer, My library, and My shared ownerships.

The main content area displays the message 'You don't have a Hal CV yet' and a blue button labeled 'Create my CV'. A purple callout box with white text is overlaid on the main area, stating: 'Required : have created your IdHAL in order to be able to set up your CV'. A purple arrow points from the callout box to the 'Create my CV' button.

04 – SUBMIT IN HAL

➤ Searching within HAL

- HAL is a collaborative database.
Before entering your publication, make sure it isn't already there !

➤ Good to know !

- The library will still check your publications metadata afterwards !
- PDF deposit is recommended to support open science. Before their online publication, the deposited documents are submitted to a moderation of HAL.
- The submission of a simple bibliographic reference, without a file, is always possible.
- In order to guarantee the continuity of access, all full text repositories of your documents are definitive.
You can update your repository by submitting a new version.
The most recent version of your document will be proposed by default for consultation.

04 - SUBMIT IN HAL

Uploading PDF is recommended to promote open science.
What are your rights?

04 - SUBMIT IN HAL

An international scope

Your publications are easy to find, well referenced by search engines and interconnected with other services (ORCID, preprint servers)

A common good for research

The largest research organizations and the majority of French universities have chosen and support HAL, a public, sustainable and responsible infrastructure.

A large collaborative community

From the researchers to the specialists of the scientific information, HAL federates multiple skills to support the opening of the publications

An archive, some services

HAL garantit la préservation à long terme de vos publications. Un ensemble de services (CV, portails institutionnels, collections, veille documentaire, APIs, identifiants) contribuent à leur valorisation.

Affiliations in HAL

Labs, research teams, universities, etc... are indexed in a repository called AURÉHAL.

As with the IdHAL, a color code is used :

Green: current and valid forms (to be preferred)

Yellow: old valid forms (to be used for old affiliations)

Red: invalid forms awaiting validation (to be used if no other valid form)

English ▾

This study shows that the governance practices of equity crowdfunding platforms contribute to the development of entrepreneurial resources. They act as an interface, structuring the interactions between the actors of entrepreneurial finance (crowd, business angels and venture capital). The authors propose a typology making it possible to characterize four types of platforms mobilizing the cognitive resources of each category of investor in a differentiated manner.

RIGHTS RETENTION STRATEGY

06 – RIGHTS RETENTION STRATEGY

To allow immediate open access to your scientific publications by licensing your manuscript under a CC-BY licence.

In this way, your publications are immediately shareable, citable, reusable and archived permanently.

In order to align with the open science policy of financing institutions.

06 – RIGHTS RETENTION STRATEGY

Main implementation steps

Apply a CC-BY licence to the different versions of your author accepted manuscript (postprint) upon submission: to be added to all successive versions of the manuscript, up to the last version, which is the one accepted for publication by the publisher.

Inform your publisher that you are applying a CC-BY licence to all successive versions of your manuscript up to the version that will be accepted for publication.

Sign the copyright transfer agreement with the publisher:

- the various versions of your article, up to the version accepted for publication, will be freely licenced.
- Your intellectual property rights will only be assigned to the final version published by the publisher.

Deposit your manuscript in an open archive as soon as it is published:

- As soon as your article is published in the journal, you deposit the postprint in an open archive such as HAL, citing the CC-BY 4.0 licence.
