Since the end of 1990s and during the 2000s, European Member States have restrained foreigners' access to residence permit and citizenship through marriage. To implement the reforms, new administrative dispositives have been created.

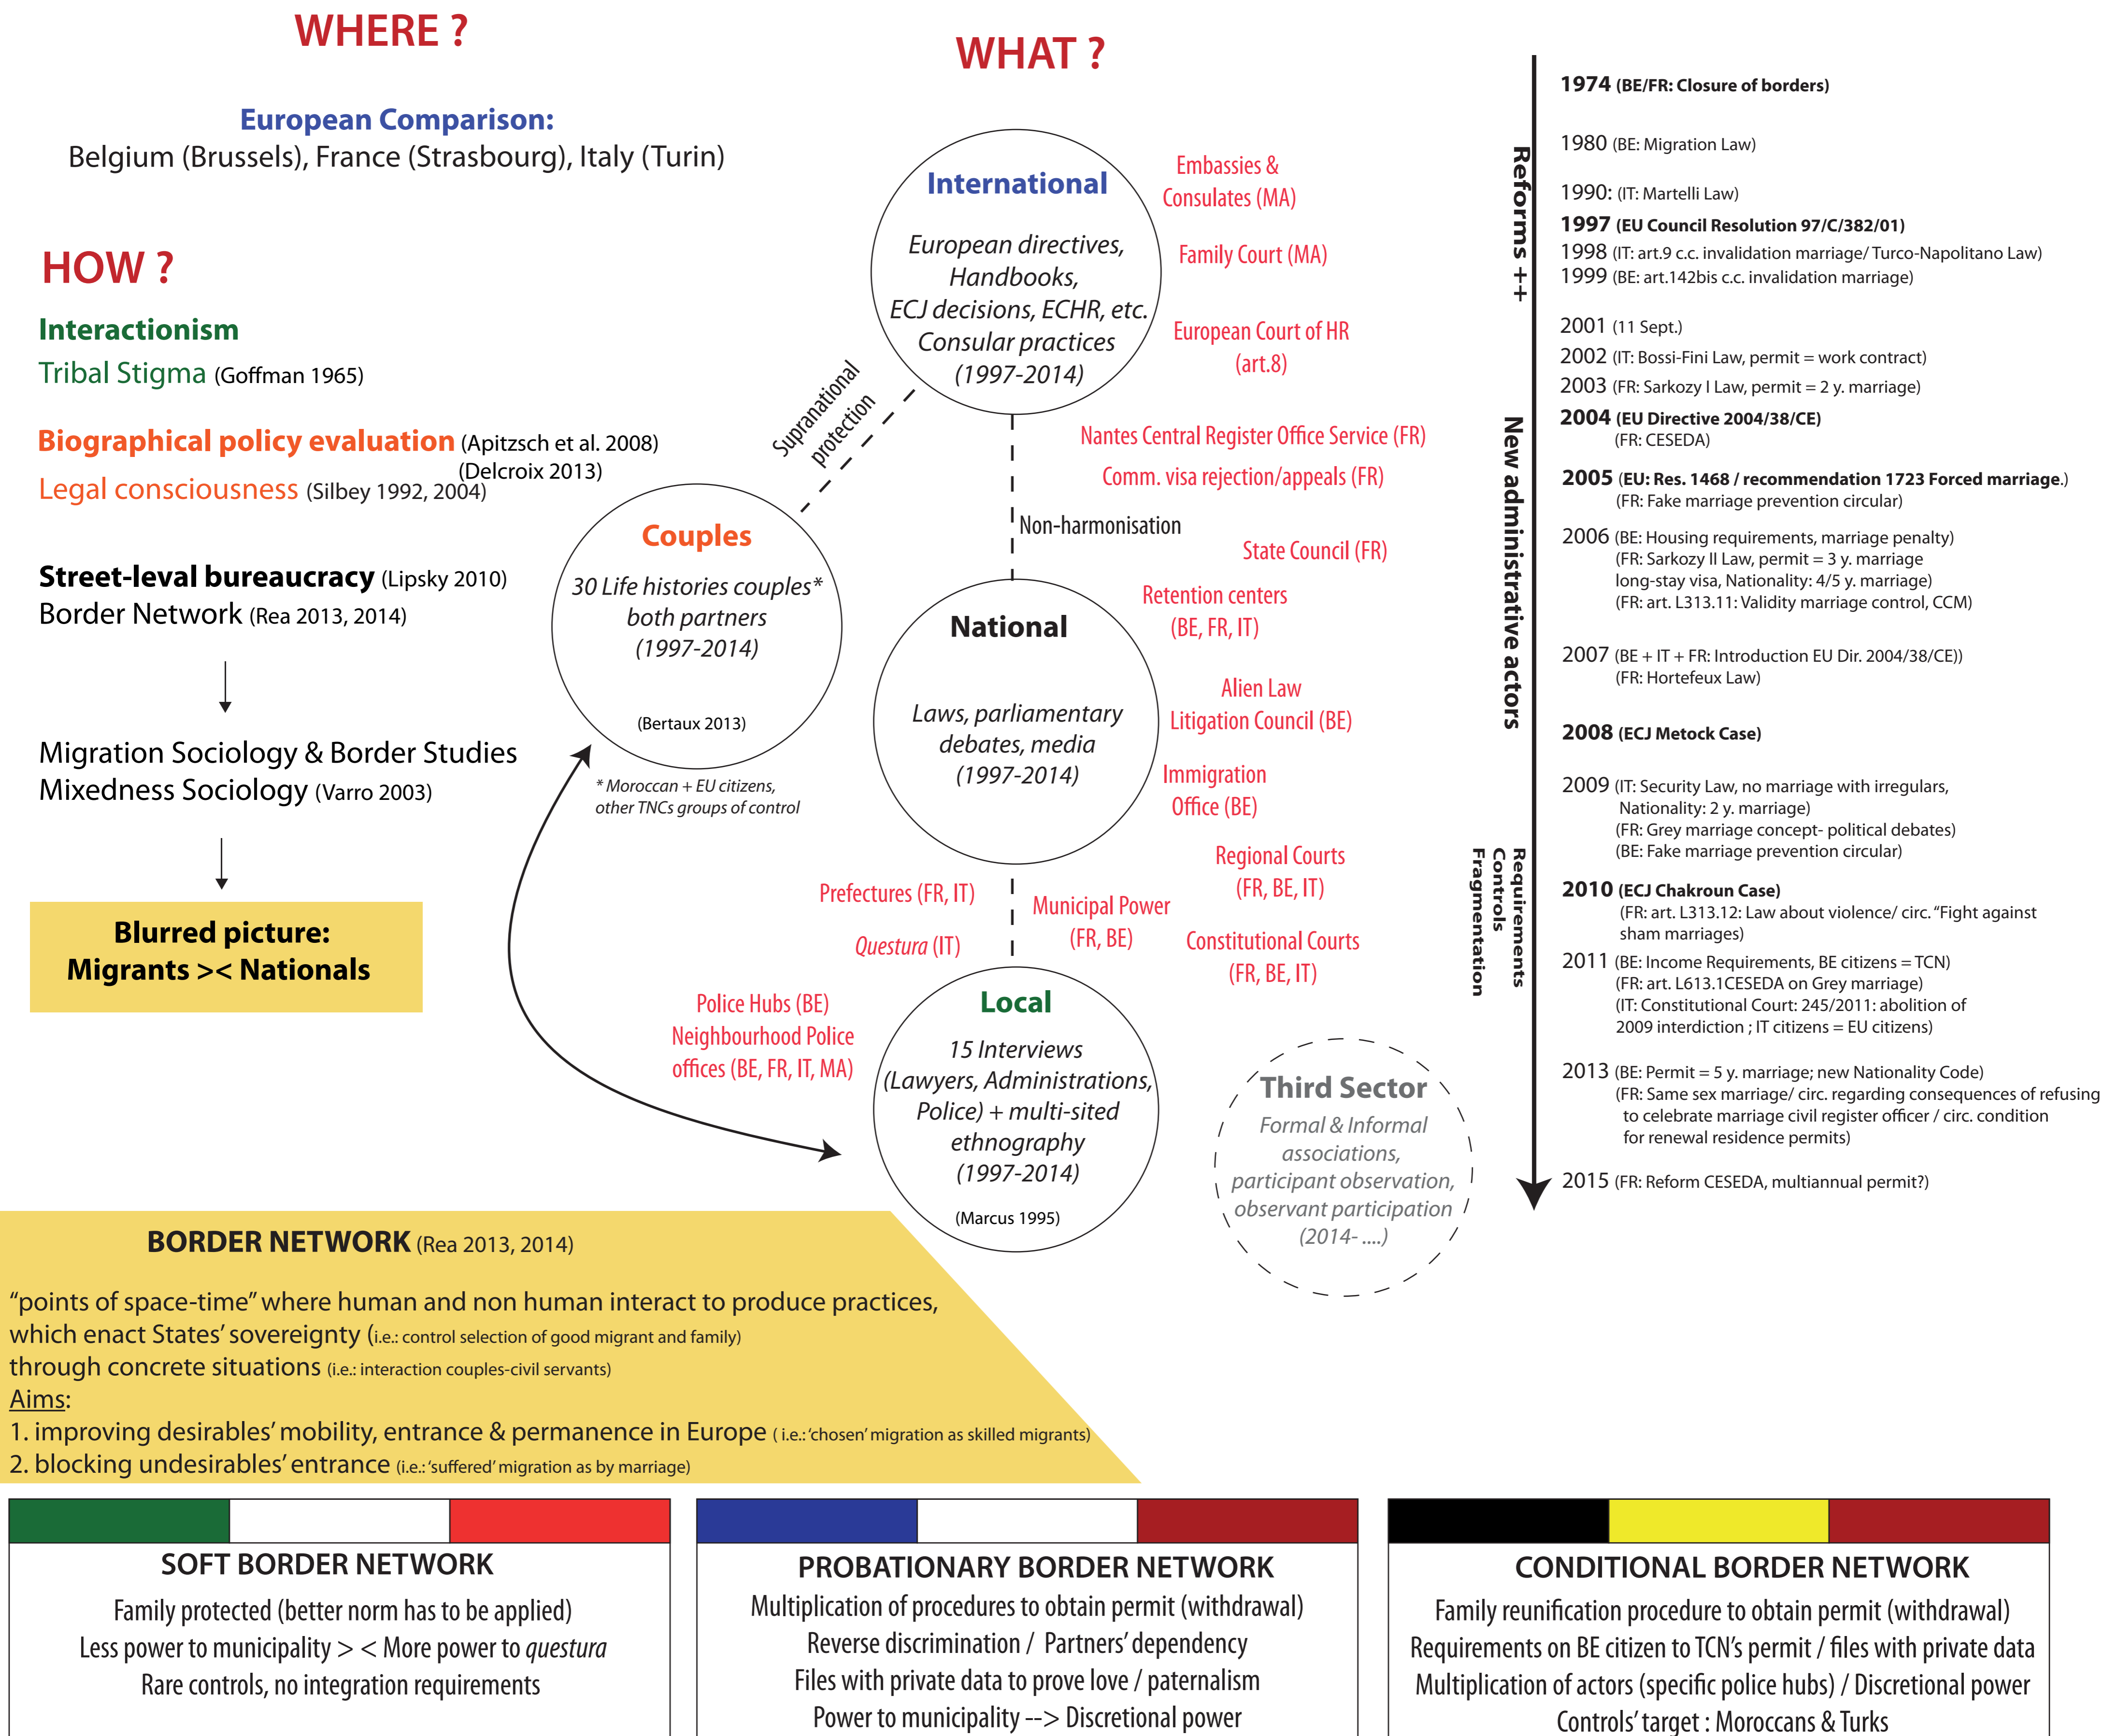

Binational marriages are depicted by policy-makers as:

- the main reason for entry and stay in Europe,
- a new migratory chain (i.e. intracommunitarian & kin marriages, etc.)
- a danger to 'national identity' and public security (i.e. "hyphenated identities" (Yuval Davis 2011), fraud, etc.)

Policy makers' debates rely rarely on the analysis of migration law regimes (i.e. illegalisation of foreigners) and international relations (i.e. colonisation & economy) Lack of continuity and recognition: no "ethic of responsibility".

Binational marriages management hides the broader question of NEW BORDERS and BOUNDARIES in European societies.

What are the consequences for the members of the couples, after marrying until obtaining a common European citizenship ?

- Findings:
- 1) Degradations of legal status' stability and restrictions to mobility illegalize foreigners (TCNs)
  - 2) Due to TCNs' legal status, couples search for administrative stability: injunction to marry = encounter with the border-network
  - 3) Outcomes of the border-networks: fragments the access to long-term residence differently in EU States ->States' interest > EU harmonisation
  - 4) New selective instability (i.e.: renewing, withdrawal permit) and dependence between partners (i.e.: unattended consequences: violence, blackmail)
  - 5) Couples' local experiences help to understand how differently family migration affect the nationals (cf. EU route)
