AND ATTITUDES TOWARD INCLUSIVE SCHOOL

Anne-Laure PERRIN – Mickaël JURY – Caroline DESOMBRE

INTRODUCTION

- Inclusive education in process

- Teacher attitudes toward inclusive education as a barrier (Elliott, 2008; Leatherman & Niemeyer, 2005).

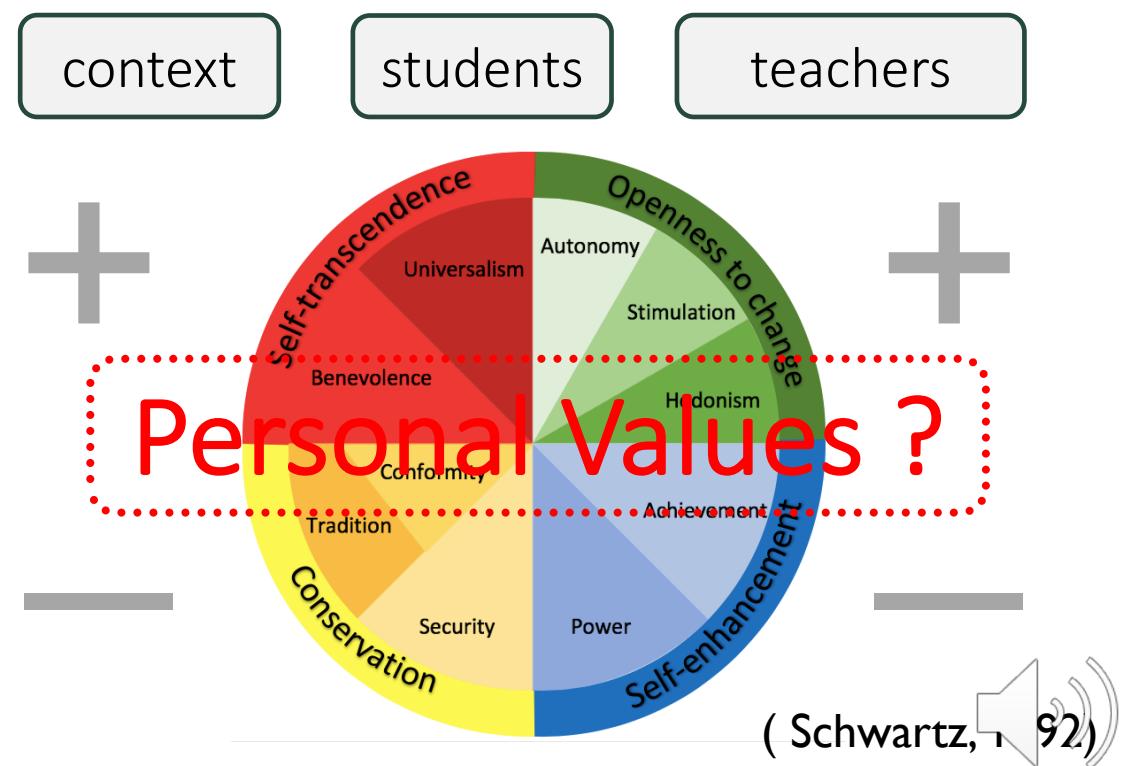

- Attitudes are influenced by various factors related to:

context

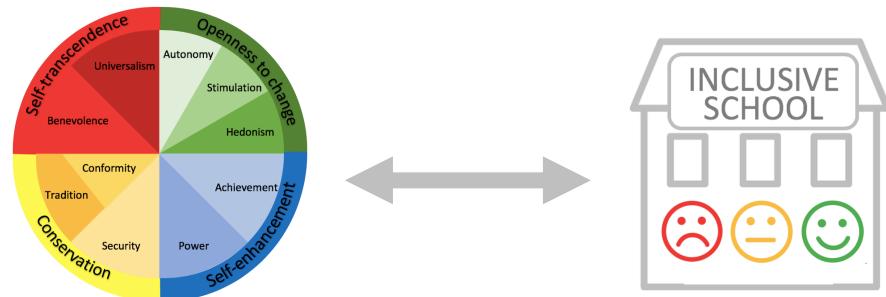

students

teachers

METHOD

■ Study 1 – Seeking for relationships

- Correlational study
- Online Survey
- 326 Teachers – Preservice and students teachers

■ Study 2 – Replication and SDB

Study 2  $B = -0.00$ , 95% CI [-0.07, 0.07]

CONCLUSION

Positive relationship

Equity – Well-being - Stimulation -
Change - Mastery- Control

Congruency between these values and inclusive school

■ Limits

- Correlationnal studies
- Shorter scales but ...
- Context?

Mixed relationship

Success - Performance
Domination - Prestige

Inclusive school
= new challenges = threat

Shorter scales?

No relationship

Stability –
Statu-quo maintenance

Inclusive school
= changes = threat

Normative pressure?

■ Perspectives - Test for causality

- Values activation
- Personal values and system values : taking the context into account
