HAL is a multi-disciplinary open access archive for the deposit and dissemination of scientific research documents, whether they are published or not. The documents may come from teaching and research institutions in France or abroad, or from public or private research centers.

L'archive ouverte pluridisciplinaire HAL, est destinée au dépôt et à la diffusion de documents scientifiques de niveau recherche, publiés ou non, émanant des établissements d'enseignement et de recherche français ou étrangers, des laboratoires publics ou privés.

A world map with a dark teal background and light gray landmasses. Numerous small, multi-colored dots are scattered across the map, representing project locations. There is a high concentration of dots in North America (USA and Canada), a significant cluster in Europe (primarily Western and Central), and several dots in Australia and Japan. The dots come in various colors including purple, blue, yellow, green, red, and black.

Sites and Agents of Feminist Memory: a Citizen Science Project

Iméra Community Building Seminar, 04/05/2023

An elderly woman with white hair is celebrating her 100th birthday. She is wearing a large, sparkly pink bow in her hair and heart-shaped pink sunglasses. She has a wide, happy smile and her hands are raised in the air. In front of her is a birthday cake with three lit candles that spell out '100'. To her left is a potted plant with colorful, artificial flowers. The background shows a wooden door and a patterned curtain. The entire scene is bathed in a warm, orange-toned light.

THIS IS SO EXCITING!!

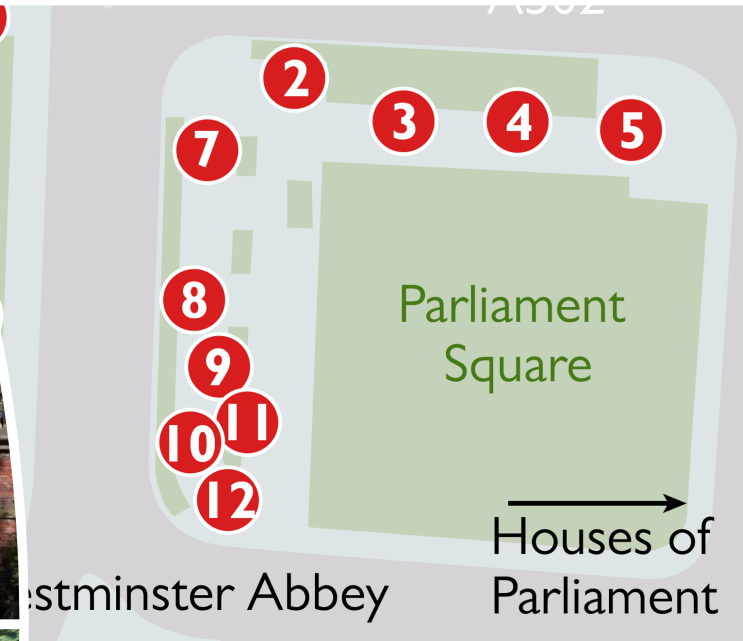

Feminists ❤️ statues

This time, it's different: breaking the "bronze ceiling"

Two sets of questions

Les Lieux de mémoire

I • sous la direction de Pierre Nora

Set 1: sites of feminist memory

- Place
 - Where are the other ones?
 - How central or peripheral are the spaces they occupy?
- Time
 - When were they unveiled?
 - What is the history of suffrage memorialisation?
- Form
 - What forms do they take?
 - How traditional or transgressive are these forms?
- Story
 - Who's story are/were they telling?
 - Who is/was the story for?
 - What was the intended message: that feminism is "mainstream" or that it is "over"?

Set 2: agents of feminist memory

- Who is/was behind those sites?
Has the social/political profile of these agents changed over time?
- What are/were the (sociological, ideological, historical, emotional...) drivers of the désir de memoire surrounding the suffrage movement?

A “citizen science” project

Idea:

Make an online map of the sites of memory dedicated to women’s suffrage with the help of “the general public”

Scientific goals:

- Create an open database of memorials all around the world to facilitate comparative analyses
- Identify contemporary agents of memory so as to conduct interviews with them about the drivers of the désir de mémoire

Educational goals:

- Create an information-gathering template that encourages people to submit entries
- Create an accessible and engaging gateway into suffrage history
- Involve my students

Civic goal:

Contribute to spreading and strengthening a “feminist civic culture”

Making the map

2021-2023: the “beta” phase

- Identifying the tools
 - Framacarte: open-source
 - Lime Survey: in-house
- Forging the form & hiring the staff
- Seeking out contributors
- Results:
 - Internship 1 (2021): 30 sites + a Twitter account (69 followers...)
 - Internship 2 (2022): 50 sites + an Instagram account

THE BASICS

What type of memorial to the Women's Suffrage Movement would you like to submit for inclusion in this map?

Please give a single-word answer.

Here is a non-exhaustive list of examples: Building, Commemorative Plaque, Garden, Mural, Park, Sculpture, Stain-glassed Window, Statue, Tomb

What is the name of this memorial? If it has multiple names, please separate these with the word "or".

Example: Millenium Bridge or Wobbly Bridge

Sites of Feminist Memory: A Map of Memorials to the Women's Suffrage Movement

This map seeks to geolocate the memorials to the Women's Suffrage Movement all over the world.

It is a small contribution to the decades-long effort by activists and scholars to raise public understanding and awareness of the significance of our shared feminist past.

We hope it will provide an invaluable resource for citizens, teachers, researchers and students.

To suggest a site for inclusion, please EITHER email us the suggestion at feministmemory@gmail.com OR take the time to fill in the form here: Sites of Feminist Memory Form

To provide us with additional information about a site of memory which already appears on the map or if you have questions about the project, please write to feministmemory@gmail.com

You can also follow our progress on Twitter and Instagram

2023: taking stock @ Iméra

- Design
 - The form times out on people
- Content
 - Some sites don't really fit the criteria
 - Most “fiches” are incomplete
 - Lack of consistency in the way the information is entered
- Logistics
 - The process to upload sites is fastidious
- Engagement
 - The latest “Six Weeks for Suffrage” campaign has not been as successful as its predecessors
- Outreach
 - Instagram is too time consuming to run

2024-2027: Houston, we have lift off

- ISM will develop a bespoke application to:
 - Make the logistics of creating entries and uploading them easier
 - Enrich the map with additional content (audio? Video?)
 - Improve users' experiences of the map
- H2C2 will test the application's user-friendliness
- LERMA will:
 - provide content for the map
 - interview willing participants
 - use the dataset to produce analyses

Suffrage history & memory in the UK

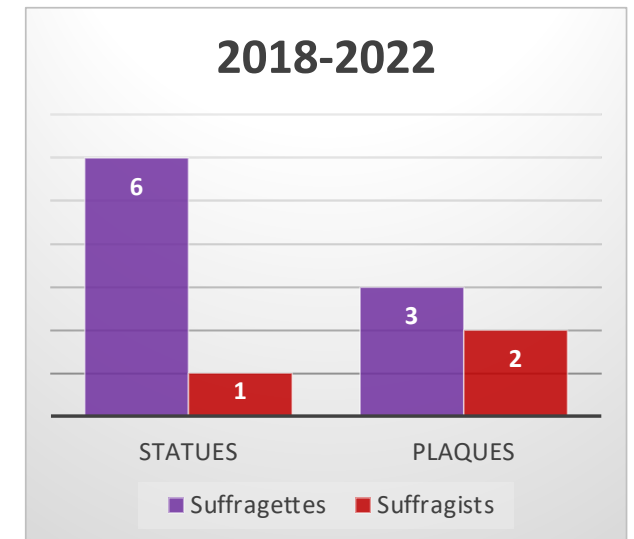

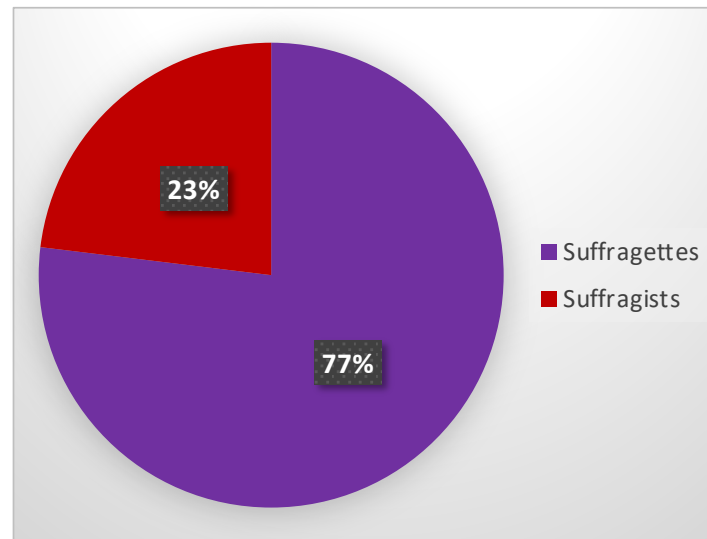

- Narrative tensions between:
 - Master (popular culture) narrative: “those plucky suffragettes”
 - Narrative trends in the historiography since 1970s:
 - Insistence on distinguishing between suffragists and suffragettes
 - emphasis on working-class involvement & geographical diversity
 - Move away from hagiography and towards “warts and all” assessments
- Question: How do public memorials relate to/reflect/challenge these narrative tensions?

Suffrage memorialisation goes mainstream

- The désir de mémoire has been powerfully spurred on by the centenary
- It is striking that the principal memorial form since 2018 has been the statue
- Even my small sample almost covers the entire UK (see map) → further work must be done to explore differences in local memorial dynamics

Who gets remembered?

4 "Great Women" = 10/24
memorials

- Emmeline Pankhurst: 3
- Millicent Fawcett: 2
- Emily Davison: 2
- Sylvia Pankhurst: 3

Who gets remembered?
The drive to diversify

14/24 memorials are to "less famous" women

- All unveiled since 2008
- 3 statues, 2 to working-class activists
- 11 plaques, either in places born or lived in

Scales of memory

- Local scale: statues erected to celebrate “our local heroine”
→ expressions of civic pride & identity
- National scale: powerful disagreements over how to represent a movement
- Outstanding question: does “remembering hope” mean “forgetting the warts”?

2024-2027: Houston, we have lift off
